

Aligning Money and Mission

RESOURCE LIST

What Money Can't Buy

In his New York Times bestseller What Money Can't Buy, Michael J. Sandel takes up one of the biggest ethical questions of our time: Isn't there something wrong with a world in which everything is for sale? If so, how can we prevent market values from reaching into spheres of life where they don't belong? What are the moral limits of markets?

The Promise of Social Enterprise

Is social enterprise yet another example of the expansion of the market into all areas of life and society, in this case the marketization of poverty? Or does it offer genuine hope as part of a solution to some of the challenges facing contemporary society, and as an example of an economy of mutuality? Framing this question theologically, does it offer the potential of "faithful economic practice"? The Promise of Social Enterprise makes the case that how we answer this depends on the language we use to describe—and perform—social enterprise.

How to Rent Well

Designed as a collaborative experience for you and your leadership team to work through together, this tool will take you through the several steps so your church can rent well.

How to Sell Well

The sale of a church property is a pivotal and unique moment where a congregation can reimagine how best to further mission in their community. If you are a congregation seeking to sell your property, this framework will help you determine what is most important for you and what to prioritize in the sale of the property.

Aligning Money and Mission

RESOURCE LIST

How to Develop Well

This resource contains a framework to help churches and denominational networks determine what is most important to them and therefore how to structure a fair and effective relationship with a developer.

HOW TO DEVELOP WELL

A GUIDE TO HELP
CHURCHES WORK WITH A
PROPERTY DEVELOPER

ROOTED

Rooted Good

We launched Rooted Good so faith-based organizations can align money and mission, reclaim their relevance in a changing world and be the Church the world needs today. As faith-based practitioners grounded both in theology and in economic development, we want to leave a lasting impact in our communities, to make good in the world every single day. We live from the fundamental belief that a different — better — world is possible.

